

Client Manager for Johnson & Johnson Senior Leadership Team Event
May 12, 2016

“Nicole is a master storyteller whose keen perception and open heart allow her to weave together the many lessons and insights from her experience training for and flying in space in a way that makes immediate, intuitive sense to her audience. We recently had an opportunity to bring a client from a global health and pharmaceutical company to the Space Coast in Florida for 3 days of intensive learning and exploration with people and organizations in the space industry. The leaders in our group were exploring big questions without easy answers and the time we spent with Nicole was a major highlight of the trip. Despite a litany of accomplishments that might make her unapproachable to some, Nicole’s easy style and genuine curiosity about others’ experiences is an instant equalizer. Her ability to connect spaceflight examples to everyday human challenges and desires makes her both inspiring and immediately impactful. It was a true pleasure to work with Nicole and we’d jump at the opportunity to partner on future projects.” Jennifer Simpson, Partner